Love, it has been said, does not obey the rules of love, but yields to some more ancient and ruder law. The Garden of Love seems always to be threatened by the Stranger's knowledge of the world outside and by the old knowledge of those like Lilith (according to Legend<sup>3</sup>, Adam's wife before Eve) who lived there first.

In the ballet "Curtains", the choreographer shows us the conflict of the artist as Performer, who is absorbed by the world of tunes and images and attracted by the glamour of the limelight and who surrenders willingly to the lashing of the clown, but is at the very same time tempted to surrender to the other world - the world of tranquility, of warmth and of tenderness.

In the totemic imagination there is no sharp division between man and nature, between the quick and the dead. Yesterday and tomorrow, in a manner inexplicable to us, merge into today. And the hunter, his prey, and the hunted itself are one and the same.
